Bringing hope and love to vulnerable children and their families living in extreme poverty on the outskirts of Oaxaca City.

WHY OAXACA

Oaxaca, Mexico is among the poorest regions in Latin America. Zaachila is a very poor and underdeveloped area on the outskirts of Oaxaca City. Most families have come from smaller villages in search of a better life and are facing severe unemployment and dire housing conditions. For many, daily life is focused on survival with little hope for a purposeful future.

Three out of four people lack access to basic necessities and have only a primary level education. Many children suffer from malnutrition, neglect and abandonment, and are often forced to quit school for low-paying jobs that trap them in an endless cycle of poverty; a cycle that often brings with it drug use, gang membership, and teen pregnancy.

OUR PROGRAM | TRIGO Y MIEL ("WHEAT AND HONEY")

Our program currently provides a healthy meal once a day, six days a week, to over 100 children. It also offers safe drinking water, education and tutoring, medical check-ups, weekly church services and discipleship groups, a savings bank, and a private Christian school (Siloé School). Trigo y Miel also collaborates with our homebuilding ministry called Operation Enduring Homes, which provides jobs to local men and safe homes for families in dire need.

OPERATION ENDURING HOMES

Most families in the area we serve are forced to live in one- or two-room, dirt-floor shacks without electricity, running water, or a sewage system. This leaves families unprotected from weather, pests, and disease. This desperate need for safe homes is what led missionaries Tom and Wendy Hogan to start our home-building ministry, which provides secure homes as well as jobs, training, and long-term economic development. Recipients of these homes are empowered to save for and purchase their own plots of land, giving them a hand-up, not just a handout.

PASTOR VICTOR AND LETY VELASCO

Directors of Trigo y Miel, Mexico

Victor and Lety, both natives of Oaxaca, Mexico, are the Program Directors of our Mexico Program. In 2006, God called both of them to work in a children's ministry that is now known as Trigo y Miel (Wheat and Honey).

Since then, they have experienced God's deep love and provision for the children and for themselves. Victor and Lety work to provide food, education, healthcare, and the teachings of biblical principles through the presentation of the gospel.
